Carso Energy's sales increased 6.7% from Ps. 989 MM pesos in the 2Q21 to Ps. 1,054 MM in the 2Q22. Two favorable effects of the integration of Ideal Panama's two hydroelectric plants stood out in this result: i) Much more rain than expected and ii) higher spot prices of energy (oil and gas), which increased the sales budget. On the other hand, we have continued to provide gas transportation services to the CFE, which was reflected in the sales of the Samalayuca-Sásabe gas pipeline (100% owned by the Group). In this business we have initiated the investment in a compression station that will significantly increase the capacity of this pipeline. Likewise, the gas pipelines in Waha (Texas, U.S.A.) with a 51.0% participation (non-consolidated) continued with a good performance and are considered within the results by the equity method.

Carso Energy's operating income has been increasing its share in the consolidated results, representing 18.5%, increasing quarterly from 15.0% in the 1Q22. Operating income increased 7.7% from Ps. 743 MM in the 2Q21 -when the company began providing gas transportation services to the CFE through the Samalayuca-Sásabe gas pipeline- to Ps. 801 MM in the 2Q22.

EBITDA improved 6.9% from $837 MM to $895 MM.

The Controlling Net Income in Carso Energy decreased from Ps. 872 MM last year to Ps. 681 MM this year, mainly due to foreign exchange fluctuations.
